Introduction

Te Ara Ahunga Ora Retirement Commission monitors the effects of the Retirement Villages (RV) Act (2003), Regulations and Code of Practice. Variations to the Code of Practice became effective 1 April 2017 requiring all operators to report to the Retirement Commissioner six-monthly in relation to any formal complaints received, including to confirm that no complaints were received. The Retirement Commissioner requires operators to use an on-line complaintreporting portal on the Commission's website. Te Ara Ahunga Ora Retirement Commission receives an updated list of registered villages from the Registrar of Retirement Villages before contacting operators and before opening the reporting portal on the Commission's website. The portal is opened for four weeks at the end of each reporting period. Prior to this reporting period the Registrar advised that there were 477 registered retirement villages, an increase of 8 villages from the previous reporting period (469).

Engagement with operators

The Commission sends at least 2 electronic direct mail to operator contact email addresses before and during the opening period for reporting, including a link to the portal, an extensive User Guide and video tutorial resources. The Commission receives support from the Retirement Villages Association (RVA) notifying its members about reporting requirements in its industry-wide newsletter. The Commission publishes a general summary of the data collected after each reporting period.

Classification of report

Service levels was the most frequently reported complaint type, followed by maintenance/repair of grounds and then maintenance/repair of buildings. In the previous reporting period the top three complaint types were jointly fees/charges and service quality, followed by resident behaviour.

Note: Complaints about resident behaviour appear as a larger proportion of the overall complaints because there are multiple categories to complain about the operator and only one category to complain about residents.

An overview of the reports received since 2019

Reporting compliance has improved over time with high levels of compliance reported in the current period (89%) (the actual figure will be higher because some registered villages are still in development and have no residents in occupation of units yet). Across all reporting periods, the percentage of villages with no complaints remains fairly high varying between 67% and 81%. The total number of complaints was higher than the previous reporting period. The percentage of complaints resolved is slightly lower than the previous reporting period, but in line with previous years.
